Update: No freeway closures in Phoenix area this weekend;
I-17 work at Carefree Highway postponed

The forecast of rain in the Phoenix area means no freeway restrictions are scheduled this weekend (Jan. 25-28).

The Arizona Department of Transportation (ADOT) says work to put construction detours in place at the Interstate 17/Carefree Highway interchange starting Sunday night has been postponed. ADOT says planned restrictions for the work are currently rescheduled for the weekend of February 9-10.

ADOT will not schedule any freeway construction closures during the week of the Super Bowl and FBR Open golf tournament. Although some project work will continue off the freeways or within established work zones, no closures or lane restrictions will be scheduled until the week after Super Bowl Sunday.

Traffic information for Super Bowl events and the FBR Open will be available starting Saturday, January 26 on ADOT's 5-1-1 travel information line. You can call 5-1-1 and go to the "special events" section.
